THE FOOTAGE DETECTIVES

The Footage Detectives - Episode 180 - Welcome celluloid Sherlocks! This week, we go behind the scenes of 1930s chocolate box making, captured on a beautiful reel. Then we join police trainees on the beat in 1950s Brighton. Staying in the 50s, we journey up north to Barnsley to spot a famous face in this rediscovered reel.... And do you remember the charity collection boxes with the little child? Well one chap's been in touch to tell us it was modelled on him! And we're remembering the "bottom drawer." How many of you collected special items for 'when you got married'? Something the modern girl will never know... Do you remember 'Swipe'? Was it swipe on, swipe off perhaps? And we're examining YOUR footage detective work - everything from a magic carpet in A Family At War to a missing curtain in The Narrowing Circle. One viewer's written in about their Granny who created the 'Sounds For Silents'... And we need your help to find footage of Marshall's circus on the East Coast in the 30s or 40s - specifically of the lovely Vera and her donkeys! And poor old Sherwood Forest is the source of ridicule once again! So, bring your Mivvis and join us Sunday at 5.
