THE FOOTAGE DETECTIVES

The Footage Detectives - Episode 181 - Hello fellow fanatics of 'life in the past lane!' This week on the Footage Detectives, a lad in 1950s Scunthorpe is faced with a big career choice... It will be of great interest to anyone who was involved in the steel works! Then we're going behind the scenes with some unseen footage of the delightful drama Dulcima. Ah the fabulous John Mills and Carol White! It's a rare treat for celluloid savers! We've uncovered a reel of World War Two memories about a dance at the Dover Town Hall. It may just be an audio recording, but it's still a very important snapshot of history. And of course, we're remembering all sorts - from Smiths Crisps through Flexidiscs and 'When It Comes to the Crunch', to jukeboxes that played feature film snippets. They were just a shilling a go! Next, we're asking if you had an Electronic Engineer Radio Set... Or perhaps you were involved in projecting films out at sea? As opposed to on land! And last but not least, we look at the history of the AEC! Associated Equipment Company! I've found a brilliant reel of their buses in action! So do join us Sunday at 5 for THE FOOTAGE DETECTIVES
